Louisville Manufactures. ELL AND BRASS FOUNDRIES-STOCK BLL FACTORIES The casting of bells and brass work generally, and the manufacture of stock bells are branches of trade carried on to a considerable extent by some ten different individuals and firms in this city .-The business embraces the casting and fitting up of church, steamboat, tavern and other bellspells of all description, in very large quantities. There is but one foundry engaged in casting, inishing and fitting up church and other bells .-

casting brass work for machinists, gas fitters, lumbers, &c .- and the construction of stock The proprietor informs us that his business is steadily increasing each year, and this year he will turn out thirty-three per cent. more work than he did in 1858. The bells made at this foundry are considered to be of superior quality. They are sold as fast as made, to churches steamboats, &c. Several of the churches and other public buildings in this city have their bells of Louisville make, and we have no hesitation in saying, from personal observation, that there are no public buildings in New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, New Orleans, St. Louis and other large cities of the Union, whose bells exceed, in excellence, those made by Mr. Wm. Kaye, and used on some of the churches in this city. Stock bells are made here quite extensively. The factories engaged in this business in Louisville, will this year make bells of this discription to the value of fully one hundred thousand dollars. About forty hands are emloyed in this made to the Southern and Western States, Texas, Mexico, and different parts of South America. One concern largely engaged in this branch of nanufacturing, sell the principal part of the proare purchased there, and sent to different foreign narkets, chiefly to the various cattle grazing countries of South America. This business is also rapidly increasing. It is found to pay well, and thus far the sales and business of the manu acturers have been limited, simply by the prouctive capacity of their workshops. There are a the city, seven brass foundries, where brass castings of almost every description are made. uch brass work as is used by machinists, gas fitters, plumbers, scalemakers, &c., are made here, and finished as neatly and perfectly as at any place in the western country. This business, which already amounts to a large sum annually, is constantly growing, and We do not think that, as a general rule, the quality of the brass work done at the foundries and made anywhere. The aggregate annual value of the work turned out from the bell foundry and

HEIRS WANTED .- Miss Ann Wykoff, about sixty rears of age, says the New Albany Ledger of resterday, was, a few days ago, found dead in her house. Not having, in this part of the country, any known heirs, Mr. Wm. M. Lewis has been appointed special administrator of her estate, which amounts to perhaps $2,000. Unless some one claims this property, it will escheat to the State. We understand that she formerly had relatives living in Jefferson county, Kentucky, by the names of Cuiger and Pennabaker. Miss Wykoff was of English extraction. She has lived in almost entire seclusion for many years.

received from Cincinnati last night, from a source perfectly reliable, tells the whole story of his speech, so far as Bell and Magoffia are concerned: CINCINNATI, July 29.

Editors Louisville Courier: Cassius M. Clay of mere personal or party triumph, and those who are in earnest on the subject, will be more anxious to examine the actual result than to con to-night. He spoke two hours and a quarter. He to-night. He spoke two hours and a quarter. He took no sides as between Bell and Magoffin, but denounced both as political quacks, who dared not discuss principles, but skirmished about measures. His speech was straight out Republicant. He called appear to the prophetic enigmas of the alliance around us. More than one correspondent of this class has written in a tone of mingled congratulation and censure. They heartily approve our condemnation of the peace and the author of it. But while can. He called upon the non-slaveholders of Kentucky to prepare to share in the national triumph of the Republican party next fall.

The Meeting at the Falls City Market. The Democracy had a glorious meeting at the Falls City Market House last night. Lem. Hyatt was there, and did some of his best talking .-Capt. Pennebaker had as well give up the race. Hyatt stock is rising fast. Lem. will have to go o Frankfort next winter. There will be no geting on without him there. The people are deermined to send him to the Senate.

Col. Holt was also at the meeting. He has spoken so often in the open air that his voice is nearly gone. His presence, however, sent a thrill of joy through the great meeting. If the Denocracy will but do half their duty Holt will be elected. We never had a better chance to send a Democrat to Congress from this district. Holt has done his duty, his whole duty, and nothing but his duty, and now let the party do theirs, and all will be right.

[Exclusive Dispatch to the Cincinnati Commercial.]

We have from our New York correspondent, by telegraph, the following highly interesting ar-ticle from the London Times. It was received He is for Neither Bell nor Magosia.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE COULIER.

Day before yesterday we received from Lexington a telegraphic dispatch, informing us that Cassius M. Clay had gone to Covington to make a speech for the Hon. Joshua F. Bell. We also received twe letters from the same place, confirmatory of this news.

Although we are ever anxious and ready to give our readers the latest intelligence, and to keep them thoroughly posted on what is going on, we never design to mislead them. Hence we did not publish our dispatch yesterday, nor allude to a little from the London Times. It was received yesterday by the steamer Jura.

This abrupt and disappointing termination of the noble struggle has naturally filled both the covert and avowed enemies of freedom and progress with unwonted exultation. The friends of despotism and intolerance, the aristocratic partisans of Hapsburg rule, the supporters of the holy alliance, and the Papal throne, are most beside themselves with sudden joy. It is a jubilee for Austrian Grand Dukes, Italian Cardinals, French priests and English Peers. All this is natural enough, but there are others besides the avowed and real enemies of progress, who regard the peace with a kind of satisfaction. Many sincere freedom and progress with sudden joy. All this is natural enough, but there are others besides the avowed and real enemies of progress, who regard the peace with a kind of satisfaction. Many sincere freedom and progress with sudden joy. It is a jubilee for Austrian Grand Dukes, Italian Cardinals, French priests and English Peers. All this is natural enough. The covert and of the mobile struggle has we never design to mislead them. Hence we did not publish our dispatch yesterday, nor allude to our letters, for fear of doing injustice to Mr. Bell. We determined to wait until Clay should make the speech in question, and then there could be no mistake about it.

Mr. Clay has made his speech. He spoke at Covington last night to a very large audience. The following telegraphic dispatch, which we received from Cincinnati last night, from a could be really served by a cooking at the conditions of the peace, they turn with an air of triumph and exclaim, "he has bewith an air of triumph and exclaim, "he has be trayed the cause as we always expected he would."
We have no wish to share this feeling of triumph, nor do we accept the grounds on which it rests.

The cause of Italy is dearer to us than the fulfillment of any prophecies.
It is far too sacred to be made the instrument demn the whole effort as an utter failure. The The bridal jewels, par excellence, now being manufactured in Paris, are to be of pearls of rare size and diamonds of pure water; and the wreath which will confine the one-thousand dollar miracle of a nuptial veil, is to be composed of orange blossoms in jewels; emerald leaves, diamond and can be composed for a nuptial veil. sapphire flowers set in gold:

We have never trusted or supported the Empe ror of the French, in the sense referred to by our own correspondents. From the day he first assumed the purple, his character and conduct have been unsparingly criticised in these col-umns. The judgment formed on both, seven years ago, has been confirmed during the interval by fresh acts of tyranny, and repeated over and over again, and we have hitherto seen no reason to change it. His best impulses are obviously of a mere selfish kind, but useful actions often spring from questionable motives. To help the great cause of Italian nationality is emphatically a good action, to be welcomed by all lovers of freedom. When Louis Napoleon offered such help, we, in common with the greatest Italian states-men, willingly accepted it. There was a certain peril in accepting help from! such a quarter, but while the need was urgent, many reasons con-spired to render the danger small.

His fidelity to his engagements, we were per-fectly assured, must be an act of enlightened in-terest. Had he, according to his promise, freed Italy from the Alps to the Adriatic, he would have effectually humbled Austria, have established a powerful friendly kingdom on his Southern frontier, fixed himself and dynasty on the throne great extent, thrown this great opportunity away. He has stopped in mid career, and hastily patched up a miserable peace when he might have gloriously concluded a noble war. But we palace, and had figured up the cost to his satisfaction, he invited the directors of the Parisian gas companies to visit St. Clond and inspect the believe in doing so he has betrayed himself quite as much as the cause he championed. He is un-faithful, not only to Italy, but to his own highest self-interest. Had he concluded the work, his triumph, both in France and Italy, would have been certain and complete, but it is now only dubious and partial. A latent consciousness of this lurks in the men-dactous and apologetic tone of the Imperial mani-festo just issued by the Emperor to his soldiers. The principal aim of the war is attained," runs the proclamation, "and Italy will become for the first time a nation." Italy, however, has always first time a nation." Italy, however, has always been, save to men of the Metternich stamp, a nanation, which Austria herself has found utterly beyond the power of the sword, but to make a na ion, already existing, independent. That it has failed to do, as the next sentence of the proch mation proves: "Venetia, it is true, fremains to Austria, but will nevertheless be en Italian province, forming a part of the Italian confederation." This is certainly very like addand perfect in its architectural proportions. It is forty-five feet nine inches in hight, and there will be three others like it.

PREACHING IN PEWEE VALLEY.—Rev. J. Craik, of this city, will preach in the church at Pewee Valley, to-morrow (Sabbath) morning at 11 o'clock.

federation." This is certainly very like adding insult to injury. After promising to liberate Venetia, it was bad enough to leave her in the gripe of Austria, but to insult her with the assertion of a fictitious independence is an aggravation of the injury. How Venice can be politically Italian it is difficult to see. Austrian rule is unbappily on iron fact while the confederation is at present an iron fact, while the confederation is at no next sentence of the proclamation is even more insulting. "The union of Lombardy with Pied-mont creates for us a powerful ally who will owe to us its independence." Nor is the daring assertion that Italy will hereafter "mistress he the fact that the proclaimed objects of the war have been to a great extent sacrificed. Yet is would be unjust to deny that something is gained A large, populous and wealthy province is finally wrested from Austria, and forms part of the most powerful Italian State. Italian nationality has become a question of prime European importance, and can never again sink into a subor-dinate or even secondary place. The spirit of the people of Italy has been stirred, and they have learned in the brief campaign what may be done by united, well organized and resolute ef-fort. These are results of permanent value, which even the hasty and ignominious peace cannot destroy.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

A Paris letter to the Independence Belge, of Brussels, says the French troops in Italy will, now that peace is agreed, be split up into fractions and the same of the sam tions and stationed apart, until ordered home, so as to avoid the inconvenience attending large agglomerations of men. Their new cantonments will naturally be placed in sheltered places and near rivers. A good many of the relatives and friends of the officers and men are preparing to go to Italy to see them, and pleasure trains to the

Galignani's Messenger says: As soon as the important intelligence of the conclusion of peace became known yesterday, considerable crowds collected, in spite of the extreme heat, and congratulated each other on the war being over. Flags soon appeared at windows, and at night the public offices, theaters, and great thorough-fares were brilliantly illuminated. An immense crowd filled the streets, admiring the brilliant appearance of the houses. As was seen at the re-oicing on the eccasion of the battle of Solferino many of the secondary streets were more gay and better lit up than the grand thoroughfares on the Boulevards. A very striking effect was prothe general basis of the peace has been agreed to but that that act does not by any means exclude the meeting of a Congress to decide on the defi-nite constitution of Italy. At all events, before a Congress could meet, the belligerent powers must have come to an understanding on the basis of the negotiations. The two Emperors have done better. They have signed the peace, but neither better. They have signed the peace, but neither one nor the other has intended to withdraw from petency. The Paris correspondent of the London Star (not very reliable authority), says Kossuth and Klapka, according to private letters from Turin, have both been detained at that place under the strictest surveillance of the French police, to whom instinct, no doubt, taught them, if a treaty was about to be signed between France and Austria, it would not be wise to suffer the two per turbators of Hungarian peace to run off for Hun

The Republicans here are furious at what they are waiting with the greatest anxiety for the next news from Italy.

EXERCISE IN THE MORNING.—Walking is said to be most health-giving, but an intelligent writer says that long walks should not be taken before breakfast, as by so doing an unnatural hunger is created, and the walker is apt to over eat and injure himself. Early rising, early breakfast and a modera'e walk before commencing the business of the day, will prove highly beneficial to all who lead confined or sedentary lives. DEGRADED WOMEN. - There were just a half ozen cases this morning, and hard cases at that dozen cases this morning, and hard cases at that. Elizabeth Tevis, for getting royally drunk and attracting a crowd of boys and girls at her heels, was sent to the workhouse one month to sober up. Cynthia Stevens, Elizabeth and Mary Schammerhorn, Rachael Hammon and Mary Stevens were presented for disordery conduct. They all exist in one room in a shanty beyond Broadway, which is frequented by youths of a tender age. A witness stated, on one occasion he saw two boys in bed with one girl, and two girls in bed with one boy. The latter was a full grown boy. The girls are abandoned, and say they have no other place to go. The Judge sent them all to the workhouse but Mary Stevens, the old woman, who was discharged.

To the Workhouse.—The case against Mary Hicks for stealing Mrs. Smyth's jewelry was not made out. She was, however, sent to the workhouse in default of $100, to answer a misdemeanor.

Assault.—Wm. Crier was up for an assault on Conrad Moser. Held in $100 to answer.

Discharged From the Workhouse.—Mary Stafford was discharged from the workhouse. The King of Bavaria's alliance with Lela Montez has created quite a taste for actresses among his kinsmen. Field-Marshal Prince Charles of Bavaria has just married the widow of the actor Holken, who has received the title of Baroness Funkenburg, and Duke Louis of Bavaria has formed a morganatic marriage with an actress named Monthe, who has been raised to the nobility as Baroness Waldsee.

Parisian Fashions-What the Empress is about to The great social event of the day, the marriage As hoops orce got out of fashion, so they will again fall into disuse. The latest fashions' bulletin from Paris, which exhibits and describes the modes for July, announces two facts, highly interesting to the female portion of society. The (or, we should say, the alliance, since it is to be conducted on a royal scale of magnificence) between the Cuban millionaire, Senor O., and the fair Americaine, Miss B., is to be celebrated on or about the middle of next month; first in Grace Church, to conciliate the Protestant prejudices of the bride, and afterwards, with impressive display, at one of the Roman Catholic cathedrals.— This golden wedding has been postponed on account of the recent severe illness of the bridedress, thereby diminishing the proportion of the upper. "Perhaps," the reporter adds, "this mod-ification may already be looked upon as a sort of groom, as well as to await the arrival of a one-hundred-thousand-dollar bridal present from Cu-ba, to be sent by the gentleman's sister to her invasion on the rights of the long triumphant crinolive." The fact is, the Empress Eugenie, who rules the fashions in Paris, has set her face ba, to be sent by the gentleman's sister to her prospective sister in-law. So brilliant a parti, with his sixty years and his four millions of dollars, has been for more than a year the end and aim of many Fifth avenue matrons on behalf of their budding daughters, and of many Fifth avenue heiresses on their own behalf; but the ambitious hopes of these dowagers and belies have been sadly crushed by a young lady outside of their "set"—portionless, perhaps, but rich in her seventeen years, her Eugenie-like features, and her tall, graceful figure, to say nothing of virgin affections. very decidedly against the excess of crinoline, and, if rumor be credited, intends having them wholly It is her manifestation against the double skirt which has already substituted flounces, of which Indeed, Eugenie seems inclined to bring back the female fashions of the early part of the first Empire, when Josephine was the autocrat of dress and restore the figure to its natural shape. The mpression in Paris, where all things run into ex-tremes, is that even short waists will be revived. Think of that, Master Brooke! Think of ladies' waists directly under their arms. Yet this was the fashion worn in 1804, by Josephine the grace-ful, and Madame Recamier, then the acknowledged Queen of Beauty.

THE FASHIONS .- "Tight sleeves are inevitable," say the ladies who read the signs of the times in the dial of fashion—and the last letter from Paris says: "Thirty flounces are necessary on a dress, and basques are entirely hors de combat." Such hair, we observe, is modestly gaining ground. We saw alovely lady at Saratoga who wore it in the most becoming fashion. AN INTERESTING QUESTION—AN AMERICAN IN THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT.—The member for Dartmouth in the new British Parliament is Capt. E. W. Schenley, whose marriage with a wealthy heiress of Pittsburg is not forgotten here. Less than nine years ago, the gallant captain, who so brilliantly carried off the beauty and jewel of a boarding school on Long Island, where her family had fondly hoped she would be, like the Roman Vir-ginia, the bride of study for a while, was naturalized, in due form, as a citizen of the United States. According to the usual order he renounced an 1 abjured forever allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince, potentate, or State sovereignty whatever, and particularly all allegiance to the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland, whereof he had been previously a subject. Here is a nice case for the naturalization debaters. Is he a citizen of the United States? or a subject of Great Britain? or both, naturalized as to the former, and navive as to the letter? Could he he sleeted to Congress. to the latter? Could he be elected to Congress from the Pittsburg District, where he holds, by right of his wife, immense landed property, and

The Last Day.

We do not mean, by the above heading, to frighten anybody. Our caption is not intended to suggest the end of the world. We have nothing to say at present about doomsday. The day of judgment, we trust, is not so near at hand. In one sense, however, that day is near. The people will set in judgment upon the two parties of this State to-day and to-morrow, and will decide the case Monday. We have no fears about the decision. They will condemn the Opposition, beyond a doubt. The evidence is all against them. They are enemies to civil liberty and suborners of the Judiciary. They have violated the Constitution by taking an oath against Catholics, and contemned law by swearing against foreigners. They are office-seekers, time-servers, placehunters and wire-workers, without principles to guide their action, and they will be tried, condemned and executed next Monday. There are now but a few hours more to be de.

voted to labor for our party. Let those hours be well spent. Let every man be up and doing .-Much good can be done to-day. Indeed, all that has been left undone may be accomplished before twelve o'clock to night. A glorious victory awaits Megoffin, Boyd, Greene, Garrard, Richardson Frazer, Bates, and James, upon the State ticket, should be elected. The are good men, true and tried, and the objections that can be urged against any one of them are nothing in comparison with the multitudinous sins of his opponent. The Democrats, honestly speaking, are better and more reliable men than the Oppositionists, and ought, therefore, to be triumphantly elected.

For Congress we have Burnett in the First District, Peyton in the Second, Sale in the Third, Chrisman in the Fourth, Jewett and Brown in the Fifth, Garrard in the Sixth, Holt in the Seventh, Simms in the Eighth, Moore in the tate not to say that these are better men than the Opposition candidates. They are more experienced as statesmen, and more reliable as politicians. With the exception of the Fifth District where there is no Opposition candidate, the voters who want to vote right can have no difficulty in hoosing the best man. In the Fifth District we thesitatingly advise all good men to vote for lewett-not that Jewett is a favorite of ours-but Brown npon the track. Brown is notriously too oung to go to Congress, and, if elected, he cannot take his seat. It is better, therefore, to elect Jewett, who can take his seat. The next session

We have twenty members to elect to the State senate, and one hundred to the lower house of the egislature. The nominations, so far as we know, are good. Some of the candidates are objectionable in some respects, but none of them so much so as the Opposition. It is all important that we have a majority of the Senators and Representatives, for they will have the electing of a United States Senator next winter. Kentucky is Democratic, and we want our Legislature to send on a Democrat to sit with Powell, in the place of Crittenden. The State will not be properly represented at the national capitol unless a Democrat shall take the seat now occupied by Crittenden.

Such is the state of things at present, and the last working day has come. It is too late for us to advise with our friends outside of the reach of our daily issue. Our last weekly has gone to the country, and we can say no more to our distant readers until after the election. To our friends in Louisville and the Seventh Congressional district, however, we can yet talk. Our last appeal to them is, therefore, to work to-day without osing a moment, for Magoffin, Boyd, Greene, Garrard, Richardson, Frazer, Bates, James, Holt, Reasor, Hyatt, Merriwether, Geiger, Croxton, Smyser, Kinkead, and Levering. Let us elect all of these men if we can, and if not all, as many of them as possible. Whatever objections exist as to any one of them, are weighed down ovewhelmingly by more serious objections to his

President Fowlkes passed through our city yesterday en route for Marshall, Texas. He was here but a few hours yesterday morning, and left on the train for Memphis. Before his departure, however, he raised $50,000 for his road. This sum will pay the first instalment on the indebtedness of the road, and insure the end of the State suit. The President already has means to meet the second instalment, and it thus appears that the trouble of this great enterprise is about over. Its prospects were never so flattering as they now

Dr. Fowlkes has arranged with J. Edgar Thompson, President of the Philadelphia Central, to take the Presidency of the Southern Pacific, so soon as the company is freed of debt. No matter how proudly it moves on, however, its success will be due to the indomitable will, untiring energy, and consummate skill of Dr. Fowlkes, who has rescued the enterprise from ruin at the risk of fortune, health, and life. The Journal of yesterday made some chareristic remarks about what we said of its incendiary articles. This holy horror of the "old boy" of the Journal might be well enough, if it were not for his record. His record, however, is awful against him when he attempts the decent. Instead of his being opposed to publishing accounts of prize fights, his paper has, heretofore, been an organ of such things. We remember well that on the 25th of October last he published in the Journal a full account of the brutal fight between Morrissey and Heenan. And worse than all, he stole from another paper the account of the fight, and published it as editorial under the cover of a condensed report. The Courier copied accounts of the same fight and credited them to the Buffalo papers, whence they were taken.

What then are we to think of the virtuous indignation of the "old boy" of the Journal against newspaper accounts of prize fighting? Why, simply that his old fogy paper is too lazy and District, in 1857, between Holt and Marshall: devoid of enterprise to furnish a reporter for such things; but when it can steal from other Henry papers, all is well. According to the idea of the newspaper to publish its own account of a prize fight, just as it would of fires, floods, murders, robberies, &c., but it is all right to steal such accounts from other papers. When, therefore, prived of the news for which they pay us if we had not put in type a full and reliable account of the fight between McCarty and Carney.

Lem. Hyatt.

We are glad to know that such is the personal popularity of this estimable gentleman, he will tion, and I am called upon to ratify what they did, in contravention, as I also believe, of the wishes of a large majority of the people of Kentravention. receive the votes of quite a considerable number we do not entertain a doubt of his election by decided majority. We trust, therefore, that every conservative and national man in his district will esteem it a pleasure as well as a duty, not only to vote for Mr. Hyatt on Monday next, but see that their careless and dilatory neighbor also de-

Such men as Lem. Hvatt are needed in our State councils. He is a thorough-going, intelligent, practical, and reliable gentleman. He is one of our very best business men, has a quick and comprehensive mind, and would make a safe, efficient, and laborious legislator. That he would perform the duties of the position honestly and zealously, all who know him will vouch.

Mr. Hyatt well deserves the large popularity he enjoys. He is modest, unostentatious, and unas suming in his manners, is a true friend, and has a heart "as big as all out of doors." No man in the city is more liberal in his charities, and although he dispenses them so widely and judiciously, yet it is all done so quietly and so entirely devoid of ostentation, that his right hand scarce ly knows what his left is doing. He is eminently and emphatically a true, reliable, honest, and good man, and if voters would divest them selves of the miserable party fetters that cumber most deserving, Mr. Hyatt would be almost the unanimous choice of his district.

We think that his juniors, if nobody else, should pay some sort of decent respect to his name and position.—Lou. Journal. Some such respect, we suppose, as you paid to the united effort of the Democracy, and let not that | your late partner after he was dead, by accusing effort be wanting. The thing to be done is worthy him of writing an inelegant free-negro article for the Journal. We should not like to have vo measure the respect we ought to have for the pame or position of a partner, or any one else.

John B. Breckinridge, Esq., the able editor of the New Orleans Courier, is at present in our city, on a visit to his old friends and relatives.

In 1844, when the sage of Ashland was gage or Ashland was a caudidate for the Presidency, the Democracy of the nation charged him with having committed perjary, when in 1806 he took the oath of a United States Senator four months before he was thirty years of age. It was said that he had sworn to support the Constitution at a time when he knew he was not of the age required by that instrument, for a Senator, and that in so doing, he perjured himself. Since that time, no change has been made in the Constitution, and if it were perjury then to swear to support the Constitution when the person swearing was declared to be ineligible by the Constitution, it will be perjury now. If the De the Constitution, it will be perjury now. If the De-mocracy of 1844 was right, then would it not be wrong now in supporting Mr. Brown when he admits he is too young, being now only two days and at the election only eight days over twenty; four years old? We are assured by Mr. Brown's friends, that if elected he will take his seat, if he is allowed by the House to do so at its next meeting. We think that in view of the Democratic rebuke those who have put John Young honor when they say he will take the oath of a Representative when under twenty-five years of doctrine of 1844, that Mr. B.'s friends do him litt age. Democrats said in 1844 that Mr Cley has of Congress will be no time for Kentucky to be without one of her Representatives.

twenty-five. For our part, we will be more char itable towards Mr. Brown than his his own friends we say he will not take his seat until he is twenty five, which will be after the expiration of the firs term. If we be correct in what we say, and we think we are, Democrats who vote for Mr. Brown endanger the Constitutional rights of the South and the success of the Democracy in the organization of the next House of Congress .- Elizabethtown

SWIMMING EXTRAORDINARY.—At a recent swim ming exhibition in Liverpool, Professor Poulton, of London, went through some wonderful evolutions in swimming and floating, illustrative of the dead man, the dying gladiator, and other scientific postulations. Eighteen somersaults were thrown while wholly immersed in water.— The amphibious practitioner closed his performance by eating a cake, drinking a bottle of milk, and smoking a pipe under water, amid the im-mense applause of the spectators. Two prize medals were then contended for by a number of swimmers. The first prize was for the swiftest swimm-r. Twelve started in the race, which was won by a Mr. Jennings. The second prize was for diving the greatest distance under water.— Two only contested for this, in consequence of the well known abilities of Mr. Atkins, the winner, who dived the immense distance of two hundred

Young Men, Pay Attention .- Don't be a loafer the "old boy" of the Journal shall tell us how many of his patrons would have been injured in their interests had he never stolen from an exchange, and re-published the "filthy report" of the Heenan and Morrissey fight, we will tell him how many of our readers would have been deprived of the news for which they pay us if we a poor physician has obtained a real patient by a poor physician has obtained a real patient by riding hard to see an imaginary one. A quire of blank paper, tied with red tape, carried under a lawyer's arm, may procure him his first case and make his fortune. Such is the word; to him that hath shall be given. Quit droning and complaining, keep busy and mind your chances.

NOTICES.

Consumptive invalids will do well to re member that Dr. Flower, whose successful method of treating diseases of the throat and lungs, and all those diseases arising from or predispo sing to consumption, by the two-fold practice of applications to the parts affected, combined with appropriate constitutional remedies, will prolong his stay in Louisville, at his office on Fifth street, between Green and Walnut, for a short time, in order to attend to a number of patients who have written, and those now on their way to this city in order to consult him. As Dr. Flower can refer to many in this and other cities, formerly suffering with consumptive difficulty, but now enjoying pefect health, this class of diseases can no longer be considered incurable. jy30 d1&w2

PALPITATION OF THE HEART .- When not arising from organic disease, palpitations are due either to nervous excitement or to a general impoverishment of the blood. The PERUVIAN SYRUP, by restoring the vital fluid to its proper condition, calms nervous excitement, arrests palpitations, and invigorates the whole system. From Kansas. St. Louis, July 29.—The Leavenworth Times has interesting private advices by the arrival of the express last night from Denver City, the 20th. the express last night from Denver City, the 20th. The mines continued to yield well, and new leads were constantly developing. A good many miners were compelled to quit work on account of the scarcity of water. A company commenced the construction of a flume 11 miles long to convey water to the neighborhood of Mountain City.—Tunneling had also been commenced.

Tunneling had also been commenced.

The Kansas Constitutional Convention had nearly completed its labors, and will probably adourn to morrow. The constitution is radically anti-slavery, but differs from the Leavenworth in strument, inasmuch as it does not extend the right of suffrage to negroes. The State Legislature is to consist of 72 Representatives and 21

The business of the convention was disposed of The business of the convention was disposed of with tolerable expedition, the questions of apportionment and temporary capital being the only measures that offered serious obstacles.—
Topeka was elected as the temporary capital, Lawrence being its competitor. The efforts of the partisans of both places revealed considerable corruption inside and outside the convention.—
One of more resemblers are implicit their convention.— One or more members are implicated in bribery The indications are that the ratification of the enstitution will be vigorously opposed by the Democracy, as its strong measures, the annexa-tion of the Platte District, the exclusion of free negroes, the prohibition of bank issue, and the preservation of the present western boundary, which includes the gold regions, have been defeated.

From New York.

New York, July 29.—An immense swindle has ust exploded. It is called the Grand Duchy of Baden fourteen million loan, connected with a lottery, of which the Messrs. SPECIAL NOTICES.

Ten thousand deaths But not a single tear Very important to gardeners and housekeepers There is not a garden but can be preserved from the ravages of insects, or a house that cannot be cleansed of all vermin pests, by Lyon's Magnetic Pewder. One dollar invested will save fifty in profit and pleasure. It is the powdered leaf of a plant, discovered by E. Lyon, a French Botanist, in the interior of Asia. It kills all garden worms, roaches, bed-bugs, ants, ticks, fleas, moths, etc. It is entirely free from poison, and harm-less to mankin and domestic animals. The governments and societies of Europe have liberally rewarded Mr. Lyon. It can be ordered through any merchant.

FRENCH TROPICAL Fever and Ague MIXTURE!

A certain Cure for Fever and Ague, Re mittent and Intermittent Fever, and all Billious Complaints.

It is a well known fact that the different fevers and billious complains are caused by the poisonous miasma and exhalations from the surface of the earth, which are taken into the system by respiration. To neutralise this subtlepoison and counteract its effect upon the system, is therefore what we have to aim at, and with this view the "French Tropical Fever and Ague Mixture" has been prepared.

The high reputation which this medicine has gained within so short a time in the South and West where it has been introduced, is a sufficient proof for its superiority above all other compounds of the same kind.

As an antidote to malaria, this medicine sfands unrivalled; and as it is purely vegetable, it can be safely given to children and delicate patients, not only in case of fever, but in all cases where a good tonic is required. The French Tropical Fever and Ague Mixture is prepared by iB. When Should Lovers Breathe Their Vows? When should ladies hear them?

When the dew-drops elisten,
Then their vows should lovers plight,
Then should ladies listen.

Summer Fashions Abroad

During the recent hot weather there has naturally been an exclusive demand for muslins and straw bonnets, both in the country and in the towns where visitors flock to take the mineral waters. Printed stuffs are much less showy in pat-tern than they were last year. Small designs are preferred to flowers, and no patterns prosper like those with spots, checks and narrow stripes. Flounces suit this description of dress, and they can be put on in waving lines, or they can be disposed in rows of threes. Black is mixed with everything. Some ladies with commendable taste wear white muslin robes, the flounces being ornamented with three rows of extremely narrow Black is an adjunct of sieeves and collars, and bows of it are worn in front and on White pique is the material for the shoulders. White pique is the material for mourning and traveling dresses; but fancy pique of another color is often used as a framework. Maize pique looks well encircling the bottom of a waite skirt, and it can be sharply vandyked, or scalloped round at each edge. These dresses should be accompanied, for out-door wear, by long casaques, also trimmed with a framework of maize. The idea of this mode is original, and it saves the expense of braid embroideries, which, however, are worn as a preference by those who can afford them. A negligee costume is hardly complete without a casaque, fitting at the waist, and very wide below. When made of light transparent fabrics, deep quilled ruches are laid on all round, but when the stuff is thicker, the casaque is simply bound with silk braid of differ-

Notwithstanding the heat, there is nothing more in favor than black ribbon velvets embroid-ered with white silk. This peculiar fashion is not ungraceful if the designs are well executed Flowers seem to be selected in proportion to their lightness, and white lilac and lily-of-the-valley are peculiarly suitable just now. The use green foliage is almost done away with, and pop-pies and roses are bunched together to the entire exclusion of leaves, except in the case of a guirlande jardinierere, which is a bonnet wreath comosed of the rarest garden flowers.

White laces are generally laid aside during the summer, and this is especially the case this season. Canezous, fichus, and sleeves are made of tuile, and ornamented with ruthes and narrow behind, or low and pointed at the back, crossing in the front without ends. The sleeves, a ballon, at the back, crossing are covered with black and white ruches, white tulle and black lace. We are always having occasion to recur to this black; but it creates a fureur and is introduced into everything. The greatest art is required to vary the mixture and to prevent

La chapeau Fiemontais, invented by Mile. Noel, is very successful. It is at Italian straw, small, and round, and the turned up sides are surmounted by a black feather, which is fixed by a bunch of roses without leaves. Black lace is occasionally pense with this addition. The Piemortais, for country walks and drives, is of light grey straw, and instead of the black feather, a grey one tip-ped with green, and a tuft of green velvet in place of flowers. No description can do justice to these hats with twined up sides, and the feathers are arranged in a purely original style. The well known formarina hat is the best safeguard for the complexion. They are very large, but they are so charmingly trimmed, that they are becoming to almost every description of face.

We have to remark that, in the imitation Valenciennes and Maltese laces, great improvement has been made in the purl, it now having the same twist as the real pillow lace, and being continued quite round the scallop.

There is a demand for very large lace shawls and mantilias in a variety of self and fancy color-ed mixtures of mauve and white, brown and white, black and white; the texture is light and elegant, pestowing a negligee appearance becoming

It would be invidious not to introduce a beaually prepared specimen of imitation black silk guipure lace-a patent article, which in appearance rivals those of the same class made on the pillow, and is equally durable, coming to the consumer at one-third of the cost of the real

But the newest production from the lace-frame is a pile net, in silk, to imitate velvet, used for laying over crape, glace, &c., for ladies' bonnets, which may be used also for neck-ties, scarfs, ribands, and light articles of wearing apparel for the

This manufacture from the beginning has gone through many changes, at some periods to be seen in collars very large in size, at other times medium and small; then again frilled collars take the lead, then again the change may be to other sorts of embroidery, such as collars and sleeves in sets, book and cambric grounds. The names are taken capriciously and as waywardly as flowers themselves are christened, such as Jenny Lind, Poccolomini, Duchess de Malakoff, Empress, Prinrocess Royal, Prima Donna. At present the articles most worn are collars and sleeves in sets in cambric and book; entre deux applique trimmed with ribbon and without, also sleeves (wide) in puff and guantlet, taking their names from the man-

DEPARTURES. Charm, Westport; Bowling Green, Leav; Harmonia, St Louis; Hickman, Mem; Portsmouth. Oakland, Cairo; J K Bell, N O; Progress, Cairo; THE RIVER was at a stand yesterday morning but in the evening at the head of the falls it had risen about a quarter of an inch, and we expect it to rise an inch or two at the head of the falls today. In the canal there were scant three feet water last evening by the mark. The weather continues clear and moderate, though quite warm From the officers of the mailboat Superior vesterday, we learned that the river at Cincinnati prior to the departure of the boat, had risen three or four inches. That is favorable for a slight rise bere, though we do dot expect it will be of much avail along the lower Ohio. That is the effect of the late rise at Pittsburg.

The Isaac K. Bell, bound for New Orleans yesterday, rubbed slightly in passing over the Portland and New Albany bar. She was drawing only 3½ feet water, and must have got a little out of the channel, as there were fully 4 feet water on the bar.

The Diana is at Evansville, and not at Cairo, as was stated by misprint yesterday. Several of her officers arrived here yesterday by rail from Evansville, and we learn by dispatch from Capt. Stur geon that he contemplates making an effort to day to bring the boat up from Evansville.

There were no arrivals of boats from along the lower Ohio yesterday, but from our latest intelli-gence, which is from passengers from Evansville by rail, we learn that there were fully 5 feet water by rail, we learn that there were fully 5 feet water at Cumberland dam, 4 feet 3 inches at Slim island, and only 3 feet 8 inches reported at Scuffletown. The latter point is above Evansville, and the channel very devious and changeable.

The Southerner, of the Cairo and Louisville mail line, has laid up at Mound City. The John Gault takes her place Wednesday.

THE EMPIRE PARISH-NEW ORLEANS AND BALIZE PACKET.—The new packet for the lower coast trade contracted for by Capt. J. A. Cotten, Presi-dent of the New Orleans and Bayou Sara mail line, is now all complete, ready to make her fire renture South. She was built more especially for a light, swift passenger packet, and we have no doubt that she will fully answer the expectations of her owners. Money has not been spared to make the Empire Parish, the name bestowed upon the new boat, perfect, comfortable, and safe, and we unhesitatingly pronounce her the best boat, in all particulars, that has ever been in that trade.— The hull is staunch and extra fastened, with a The hull is staunch and extra fastened, with a light, easy model, and ample power to propel it with great speed. The boat is only of medium size, as she has generally but sixty miles to run, and will make a great number of landings, stopping at every plantation on each side of the river every trip. The cabin is rich and tasty, with large state-rooms, each furnished with every requisite, and the entire outfit selected of the best material, including rich carpets, curtains, &c. all furnished by the rich carpets, curtains, &c , all furnished by the famous house of Hite & Small. The furniture was made by Monohan, the upholstery by Henry Wehmhoff, and the copper work, stoves, &c., by Wright & Bridgeford, all of this city. The hull of the Empire Parish is 175 feet in length, with 32 feet beam, and 7 feet depth of hold, and her draught of water light is only 31/2 feet She has two engines, each 21 inches in diameter, with 6½ feet stroke, with a doctor engine to supply the boilers. She has 4 boilers, each 26 fee in length, and 38 inches in diameter, which is am-ple power for the size of the boat. The hull was ailt by Hill & Payne, the engines by Lent, South & Shipman, the joiner work by Hipple, Smith & Co., and painting by Spurrier, all of New Al

The Empire Parish was built expressly for the accommodation of the planters along the coast below New Orleans, and will ply regularly between New Orleans and points below that port, extending her trips occasionally to the Balize.—She is in charge of Capt. A. J. Hooper, of the Laurel Hill, an experienced boatman, under whose constant supervision she has been built. The Empire Parish starts to New Orleans tomorrow, Sunday morning, and as she draws but three and a half feet motion and as she draws but three and a half feet motion.

morrow, Sunday morning, and as she draws but three and a half feet water, will be able to get tained by boats aground at Scuffletown, which is the shoalest point. The Kentucky, the regular Friday mail packet for Cairo and Memphis from this port, was detained, on her down trip, by low water, and did not leave Memphis till Wednesday. She is due to-night, and returns to Memphis Monday. Among the receipts by the Superior yes-terday was a drove of 100 fat hogs from Patriot. They averaged 300 pounds gross, and were sen to market.

Thanks to our attentive friend Wash. Bu-First's new water wheel, a new invention for steamboats, which was applied to the R. F. Sass, at Ctncinnati, and tried, is generally considered a failure by steamboat men. It was claimed, we believe, that the new water wheel would increase the speed of a boat with the same amount of power as heretofore, and that it would cause no jarriug, &c. They say that the wheel is intensely complicated, and makes as much noise and confusion as the clatter of two or three saw mills without grease. We learn from passengers by the Southerner to Cairo, and thence by rail, that they encountered a terrible storm on that boat while in the Mississippi, last Tuesday. They were compelled to lie by several hours, and finally weathered the storm. They met the Chancellor, loaded, at is-land 37, and the Woodford at No. 10. Capt. Bassett's boat will probably be launched at New Albany to-day.

To A. McVey, the gallant clerk of the Fanny Bullitt, we are indebted for New Orleans papers of last Sunday, and a manifest, forwarded The Fanny Bullitt returns to New Orleans to morrow (Sunday) evening, from Cairo. Passengers by railroad to-day will reach Cairo in time for the Fanny Bullitt. The Mississippi, at St. Louis yesterday was slowly receding, and the Illinois was quite low, and business very dull.

The Boston, Capt. Hildreth, is the mail boat to day for Cincinnati and the East. The Jacob Poe was at Cincinnati Friday. The Conewago and Isaac Shelby, from St. Louis, passed Evansville Thursday, and the Ida May and Kentucky passed Cairo the same day. Everybody was out last evening looking for the Eclipse, but didn't see it. They should go to Mound City where it is visible all the time.

Robert Morris, an engineer, was accidentally drowned at Nashville Tuesday evening. He had been riding in a buggy, which upset against the abutment of the old bridge. The J. B. Ford, instead of coming to this port, as stated, has probably laid up at Wheeling on account of low water. The Mary Patterson is about to load for White river at Cincinnati.

PACKET FOR WESTPORT AND GARRETT'S LANDING. The Charm, having been regularly entered for the trade, is now making daily trips to Westport, Garrett's Landing, and all way places. She starts at 10 o'clock this morning, on her third trip, and passengers and shippers will find W. A. Smith, the clerk, to be attentive, and ready to fill all orders.

The Charm has now made two daily trips, each of which was successful, and she is fast winning her way into favor as an accommodation packet. Yesterday she brought down considerable freight, including flour and hay.

RETURN SUNK .- The steamer Return, as we learn by telegraph, sunk at Duval's Bluff, in White river, on Wednesday last. Loss $10,000—no insurance. No lives were lost.

officers, I am told, have made sad havoc among the hearts of the fair Milanese; but this is not astonishing, for they are handsome, gentlemanly, and dignified men, who show to great advantage in this country. Besides are they not the liberators of these fair ladies? Ils sont en pays conquistive conquins? I heard of a case in which a wealthy gentleman, who had gone to one of the hospitals and taken a wounded Zouave to his house, was obliged to go and beg of the officer in charge to take him back again; his daughter had desperately fallen in love with the beard, the decorations and the dare-devil countenance of the Zouave.

OFFICE LOUISVILLE COURIER, FRIDAY EVENING, July 29. The usual quiet and du'lness has prevailed both in

Money and mercantile matters to-day. From a long conversation, this morning, with one of our best informed financial men, we believe that the apprehension for the ease and prosperity of the next business season is caused by the excessive imports tion of foreign goods over those of last year, without any corresponding increase in the exports from this country. Unless the drain of Gold decreases, or there is a greatly diminished import of foreign products connected with larger exports of American Provisions, Breadstuffs, &c the specie reserve of the Banks, at the shipping ports will be reduced to so low a point as to cause seriou alarm. Unless the crops, as they are ready for market go forward from the West in settlement of balance due to New York and other Eastern cities, the supply of Exchange will be exhausted, and the West will hav to furnish her proportion of the Coin required to settle the heavy debt now existing, and daily being increased to foreign countries. The receipts of gold from the California and other mines has, in the meantime, diminished, and the imports of the precious metals from other countries this year are so greatly below those of 1858, that they scarcely form a feature in the exhibits of the custom house. The banks having reduced their circulation some $3,800,000 during the last six months, and having a fair supply of eastern exchange, matured and maturing, are in good condition to furnish the means necessary to move the produce of this State to market, provided it goes forward at reasonable rates, but they are not likely to ditcount heav ly to buy produce at speculative prices, especially as the Cincinnati bankers are ready to run their pape home for redemption, eithelr in coin or exchange, as fast as it reaches their hands. At Cincinnati the rate for eastern exchange is % pe cent. The banks of this city are charging % per cent.

Austrian funds were buoyant and subscribers RENOVATION OF PASTURE AND MEADOW LANDS. to the new Austrian loan had been released from Pastures and meadows that are running out, or have been badly used, show the fact very plain-A new Ministry had been formed at Turin, Marly such seasons as the present. All such will ora being constituted Minister of War and Preshave to go through a hard trial during the next The Bank of Berlin had lowered the rate of dissix or seven weeks. If pastured, they will alcount to 4 per cent.

The budget of the Chancellor of the Exchequer,
Mr. Gladstone, had been presented to Parliament.
Its figures show a deficiency of £5,000,000 stermost turn to dust and ashes under the tread of he animals upon them: if not pastured, almost every weed common to the neighborhood in which Mr. Gladstone prefers taxation to any other they live will spring up and make just about growth nough to bear and mature seed to render them means to meet the deficit. He proposes to add 4 per cent. to the income tax on malt spirits and foul in subsequent years. Between these two dispositions of them, it is somewhat difficult to choose, but perhaps the better plan is to pasture them lightly till the occurrence of the first good rain after the beginning of August, and then take them in hand, and work vigorously for their reno.

In this operation, a first necessity is a good sharp narrow. With this they should be well scarrifiedno matter if it may seem to tear out by the roots half the grass that is left in them. After such scarrifying, give them a partial sowing of fresh seedthe quantity to depend upon their condition. If run very low, they will want a good deal, if not, much less will answer. To meadows, seed should be given of the kinds of grasses that are already Breadstuffs—Messrs. Richardson & Spence report flour very dull; French brands are offered at a further reduction in price. The harvest open flow are the properties of t apon them; to pastures, a mixture of all attaina. ble kinds should be given, for it is an unquestionable fact, that grazing lands, which are expected to yield sustenance to stock throughout the entire season, should be seeded with a succession of grasses, from the earliest to the latest, that one may all the time be coming into its period of most vigorous growth, as another is passing out. The next step in the work of renovation is liberal top-dressing. Bone dust is excellent for this, especially for the pasture lands. Guano is good also, but is not of easy access out here in the Ohio Valley. If any concentrated fertilizer can be had, the work is rendered much lighter than otherwise, for it can be sown from a basket by the hand, and a great deal of ground be thus gone over without the use of team or wagon, except to convey it to the fields when wanted. Gypsum is good for this purpose also, and so is lime made of the blue fossiliferous limestone of this re. gion. Stable manure is likewise excellent, either green or well rotted. The green would be applied with some waste at this season of the year. But a compost formed of ashes, partially decayed leaves scrapings from the woods, diggings from around old stumps, swamp or pond-muck, cleanings of the hog-pen and sheep-corners-the entire mass being well pervaded by quick lime and once or twice well saturated with water, would yield to no other fertilizer whatever, in point of virtue for the pur pose under consideration Such compost is some what bulky, however, and its preparation and application would impose more labor than many farmers are willing to perform, even for the purpose of making new meadows and pastures out of old ones.

First scarrify, then seed, then top-dress and then roll to a hard and even surface. FEED FOR HORSES .- The London Omnibus Company, says an exchange, have recently made a report on the feeding of horses, which discloses some interesting facts. It seems that the Company use no less than 6,000 horses; 3,000 of this number have for their feed bruised oats of this number have for their feed bruised oats and cut hay and straw, and the other 3,000 get whole oats and hay. The allowance accorded to the first was: bruised oats, 16 lbs.; cut hay 7½ lbs.; the allowance accorded to the second, unbruised oats, 19 lbs.; uncut hay, 13 lbs. The bruised oats, cut hay, and cut straw, amounted to 26 lbs. and the unbruised oats as amounted to 26 lbs., and the unbruned oats &c., to 32 lbs. The horse which had bruised oats, with cut hay and straw, consumed 26 lbs. per day, and it appears that it could do the same work as and it appears that it could do the same work as well, and was kept in as good condition as the horse which received 32 lbs. per day. Here was a saving of 6 lbs. per day, on the feeding of each horse receiving bruised oats, cut hay, and cut straw. The advantage of bruised oats and cut hay over unbruised oats and uncut hay, is estimated at 5 cts. per day on each horse, amounting to $300 per day, for the Company's 6000 horses. It is by no means an unimportant result with which this experiment has supplied us. To the farmer who expends a large sum in the support of horse power, there are two points this experiment clearly establishes, which in practice must be profitable; first, the saving of food to the amount of six lbs. a day; and secondly, no loss of horse power arising from that saving. power arising from that saving.

I have tried it on all kinds of land, and it has done well on each, but I consider high land the best. Have sown it on a piece of rocky land, where there were not over four inches of soil, and the crop was abundant. I have mowed it three times in one season (upon common clay land) for my horses. I have also cut it once for feed, and left the second growth for seed, which returned twenty bushels per acre. I should also inform you that my cattle have been fed upon the vetch straw this winter, and I consider it much superior, as fodder, to any other kind of straw. uperior, as fodder, to any other kind of straw.

Most grooms, acting on a different principle, wash them as soon as the animal comes in. I am satisfied this is a bad practice. When the roads are dirty, and weather wet, and the legs already soaked, washing can do no harm; but to deluge the legs with water the moment a horse enters the yard, heated with exercise, is, to my mind, as unnatural and absurd as to jump into a shower-bath after playing for an hour at cricket.

My plan is a rubbing down with straw and dry brush, and the next morning wash as clean as soap and water can make them. Pick and wash the soles as soon as the horse comes in. Is a native of the mountainous regions of Central Europe, and is hardy everywhere. Foliage dark green, unchanged by winter, grows in any soil, is easily transplanted, every way desirable. Larch or Corsican. (Plaricia.) From the island of Corsica, yet sufficiently icio.) From the island of Corsics, yet sufficiently hardy for our Northern States; is similar to the Austrian, but the leaves are of a lighter green.

> habit, and more rapid in growth. Hardy, of course. Bhotan Pine. (P. excelsa.) Resembles the White, but has more silvery foliage, and is very graceful. It is too luxuriant in growth to a very graceful. succeed well north of New York. To these we suppose a few others may be added, but we cannot speak of them from personal observation.
> II. Sprucks.—The Norway. (Abies excelse.)—This stands first of course. Black and White Spruce. (Abies nigra, and Abies alba.) Both natives of our Northern States, and worthy of planting. The black grows in good soils almost as eed well north of New York. To these we ing. The black grows in good soils, almost as splendidly as the Norway. The hemlock. (A. Canadensia.) This Spruce is of slower growth than the others, and is not quite so easy to trans-plant, yet aside from this, it is hardly inferior to any known conifer. It makes a beautiful lawn tree, works well into groups, and makes a good screen or hedge. The Spruce family is not as large as the Pine. There are several varieties of the Norway Spruce, mostly dwarf, which are hardy, and may prove desirable when further tried. The Douglas and the Indian Spruces are very beautiful, but are not proved to be hardy enough for northern gardens.

III. Firs.—The Common Balsam. (Picea balsamea.) This tree has many good traits, such as hardiness, ease of transplanting, symmetry, and fine persistent color; but it often becomes lean and shabby, as it grows old. It is worth planting, but it should not supercede other firs, which are equally hardy and better. Of these, one of the hardiest and best is Picea pichta, or Siberian Silver Fir. We can assure our readers of its perfect har dihood north of Albany. Norman's Silver Fir and Frazer's Fir are very fine and will undoubtedly stand the coldest winter. The European Silve Fir, (P. pectinata,) is a very capricious tree. It sometimes grows finely for several years, and then loses its leader, and that, too, in the mild climate of Pennsylvania. Mr. Sargent, in his new edition of Downing, recommends also Picca cepha-lonica, P. nobilis, and P. Pinsapo, as among the finest Firs.

IV. ARBOR VITE.—The American. (Thujo oc-cidentalis.) This is a very common, but very useful tree. It is often, but erroneously, called white cedar, which is a different tree. Siberian. (Thuja Siberica.) This is slower in growth, but n all other respects is finer than the last; denser in its habit, of a darker green, and hold its color well in winter, The savan in aboricul ture are in dispute whether there is any real dif erence between this and Thuja Warreano, and P. plicata. Without entering into the debate, we an only say, very wisely, that either is goo ean only say, very wisely, that either is good enough, and all are very desirable. T. gigantea, from the Columbia river and the Rocky mountains, promises to be a valuable tree; as yet, however, little is known of it. South of New York, the Chinese Arbor Vitæ makes a neat, small tree.

V. JUNIPERS.—The common. (Junipera communia). This is a small tree common to England nunis) This is a small tree, common to England Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Russia. The Swedish variety is most commonly grown in this country. It makes a compact, conical, tapering tree, of silvery green foliage. It sometimes reach-es to twelve or fifteen feet in hight. It resembles a miniature Lombardy poplar. The Irish variety is very pretty, but not quiet as robust. The Chinese is yet comparatively rare in this country, out is highly recommended for its hardiness and beauty. The Red Cedar, (J. Canadensis,) is worthy of a respectable place in all plantations. The weeping Juniper, from Japan, (J. oblonga pendula,) will be accept for hy all will be sought for by all amateurs; it is a great The foregoing, comprise, probably, most of the eally desirable evergreens suitable for northern climates. Others are now being tested by such amateurs as Mr. Sargent, and by nurserymen in iifferent parts of the country, and some of them will undoubtedly be added to the list. Among those of which we have some knowledge, we look with special hope and interest to the Thuiopis borelaias, from Nootka Sound; the Mammoth Tree of California; the Weeping Arbor Vita, and the

Yew-leaved Torreya. - American Agriculturist. ASHES AS A MANURE .- Ashes may be composted with swamp muck, river mud, or other soil con taining much organic matter, and after the de-composition of the deodorizer by ashes, the whole may be mixed with stable manures; but ashes in its natural state should never be mixed with any its decomposition to be too rapid, forcing out the ammonia and causing its loss. The potash in ery valuable for most crops, and on all soils.

We never met with soil overcharged with potash, fo even when the organic matter of the soil has open too rapidly disposed of by an excess of ashes, it has resulted in a greater amount of plant growth enabling the owner to afford new doses of organic matter. Although ashes should not be mixed with stable manure, still, after the manures have been played under a too dressing of seven is all. been plowed under, a top dressing of ashes is al-ways useful; the potash leaches gradually into the soil, correcting acidity during its descent, and on meeting with the manure, decomposes it, and renders it soluble for the use of plants. Potash in the soil prepares silica, by rendering it slowly soluble to form the outer coating of plants; it also assists various chemical changes necessary for rendering inorganic matter of all kinds soluble.—

TRIAL OF THE STEAM PLOW. - The trial of a ne steam plow recently took place near Philadelphia. It is the invention of Mr. Fawkes, of Lancaster. It is attached to an engine 18 feet long, 7 feet wide, and weighing seven tons, with upright tub-ular boiler. The engine rests on an iron drum six feet in diameter and six feet long, inside of which is an axle extending from end to end.—
The plows are eight in number, adjusted so as to lift up when the machine is turning at the end o a furrow, being turned and backed with as much ease as a common carriage. The two fore wheels are iron drums, 3½ feet in diameter, and 15 inches ace, to prevent the engine from sinking too deepy into the ground. The machine turned over 8 urrows at a time, each a foot wide, and of ample depth, going at a speed that showed it capable of plowing several acres per hour. The work was perfectly satisfactory to the committee and pectators.

PHILOSOPHY OF UNDER-DRAINS.-In order to prevent the effects of drouth, to which all soils are liable, and sandy soils especially so, in dry weather, a thorough system of sub-soil plowing and under-draining is necessary. The theory of these processes is very simple, and perhaps too generally understood by our readers to need ex-planation. The drain and the loosened subsoil are pervious to the atmospheric air. The air is always more or less charges with moisture, which always more or less charged with moisture, which coming in contact with the cooler substance of the drain or under soil, condenses and forms a con-stant reservoir for the moderate irrigation of the field. Every observing person has noticed the condensation of the moisture contained in the air, on a warm day, upon the outside of a vessel of cold water. Such is the process going on beneath the surface of properly prepared ground.—Working Farmer.

HEN MANURE .- The excretia of birds of al kinds is valuable as manure, and, if properly used, will invariably pay for the painstaking. Lime, ashes or other alkalies should never be mixed with hen manure; such treatment throws out the am monia and forms other compounds of lessened monia and forms other compounds of lessened value. When dry muck, charcoal dust, woods earth, or other cheap deodorizers can be procured compost hen manure, and if wetted with diluter sulphuric acid, so much the better, this will fix the ammonia as a sulphate, which is soluble but not volatile, like the carbonate of ammonia. No farmer can afford to sell his hen manure to morocco dressers, even at four times the usual market price.— Working Farmer.

CUTTINGS .- The propogation of plants by cut. ings is familiar to many, but the following, copied from the Horticulturist, may be of service to If you will fill a phial, or anything with water, and put in as much sand as will keep up the cuttings, and give them 75 deg. of heat, they will all root and astonish you with the ease with which they will do it in so short a time, and with hardly any trouble. LIVERY STABLE MEETING. LOUISVILLE, July 29th, 1859.
